Won in the Second.

BROOKLYN, Oct. 11.—New York won today's game in the second inning, when, with two out, five singles, two doubles and a base on balls scored seven runs. Donovan scored down after that, but the lead was too much for Brooklyn to overcome. Hawley pitched well and received excellent support. The visitors had scored four runs, mainly on errors, in the ninth, when the game was called, the score reverting back to the eighth. Score:

Won by McClelland.

PITTSBURGH, Pa., Oct. 11.—One of the cleverest and fastest fights seen hereabouts in many moons was that to-night in the Millvale opera house between the local featherweights, Jack McClelland and Yock Henniger. McClelland was justly given the decision at the end of the twentieth round—the limit. Up to the ninth round honors were about even. In the ninth Yock was knocked down and in the tenth was groggy, but was saved by the bell. In the thirteenth Henniger had Mac going for a time, but was too weak to follow up his advantage. From the seventeenth round to the end, everything was McClelland's. In the nineteenth Henniger was all but out, and in the twentieth went down three times for the count, and managed to stay there. The lads fought at 125 pounds, straight Queensberry rules, and referee Billy Bradburn kept them fighting every minute.

Maro, the Prince of Magicians.

The entertainment on Saturday evening, at the Young Men's Christian Association hall, will be a most remarkable performance by a man of wonderful versatility. Maro excels as a musician, artist and magician. Inanimate objects under his skillful fingers, appear to become endowed with mind. A block of wood changes itself into an orange. Flowers grow without earth, not one, but bushels. A handkerchief is burned to cinders, then restored whole to its owner. Maro has long been recognized as a leading master on string instruments. He has also gained a well-earned reputation as an artist. He is the leading shadowgrapher. To see Maro is to see the master of shadow pictures. He is a clean, clear and original entertainer. This will be the opening of an exceptionally fine course.

MR. BRUMMELLE EXONERATED

From the False Imputation of Being Short in His Accounts.

The council committee on accounts has about completed the examination of the accounts of J. W. Brummelle, master of Centre market, and finds them correct in every detail and there is no shortage. The only fault in the accounts is that Mr. Brummelle allowed many of them to become long since overdue and in some cases neglected to collect rent from some of the farmers who had stands in the market. The report of the committee will exonerate Mr. Brummelle from any imputation of dishonesty. His domestic troubles are well known and this caused him to become neglectful.

As is well known council asked Mr. Brummelle to resign and William Conrad was elected as his successor at last Tuesday's meeting. It was stated by a member of council that the bondsmen of Mr. Brummelle would continue and act as his successor's bondsmen. Will Bowers, one of the three bondsmen of Mr. Brummelle, was seen by a reporter yesterday, and he stated that this could not be done, and that Mr. Conrad would have to choose his own bondsmen.

AMUSEMENTS.

An evening spent with Miss Hobbs is an evening of rare delight. Miss Hobbs dwells in a fairyland of sentiment, where men and women, although they may have their little faults of temper and their little peculiar quirks of disposition, are, nevertheless, true and honest and without hypocrisy or serious blemish, where love, pure and idealistic, is the ruler; where there is nothing ignoble nor any real trouble; where the men are all brave and tender and the women all beautiful and good. To miss this attraction, which comes to the Opera House next Friday evening, October 12, is to miss seeing the best comedy that Jerome K. Jerome has yet turned out.

"The Flaming Arrow."

In the play, "The Flaming Arrow," soon to be seen at the Grand Opera House, here, for a half week, commencing Monday, October 15, Go Won G Mohawk will be seen to great advantage. The management has surrounded her with a competent and capable company. All special and appropriate scenery has been provided, together with minute and elaborate native costumes. The details of which were furnished by Two Moons, the old Indian warrior, who was acknowledged to be in the fight in which General Custer was massacred. A grand street parade will be given on the day of each performance, by an Indian brass band, led by W. S. Killey, the world's champion bugler.

"What Happened to Jones."

Lovers of high class farce are promised a treat in the engagement at the Opera House, next Saturday, matinee and night, of "What Happened to Jones," which is from the pen of George H. Broadhurst, who is also the author of "Why Smith Left Home," "The Wrong Mr. Wright," and the latest farce, "The House That Jack Built." The story of "Jones," according to its plot, is a series of queer circumstances and adventures dilly put together by a clever dramatic architect, who takes his people from actual life, and by the moving of his checkers places those of opposite characters in direct contact with each other. Mr. Broadhurst frankly acknowledges that "What Happened to Jones" was written without one aim in view, and that one the purpose of creating merriment, without compelling the auditors to witness horse play. In short, "What Happened to Jones" is claimed to be a legitimate farce, if such an expression may be used. The story that furnishes the groundwork for the play is quite simple, yet despite this simplicity, there is not a dull moment in it from the opening scene to the final fall of the curtain.

MARTIN'S FERRY NEWS.

The Daily Chronicle of Wheeling's Progressive Neighbor.

There was some misunderstanding yesterday by many people in regard to the street car fare to Belaire this evening. Many were under the impression that the rate of ten cents for the round trip was for members of the marching clubs only. A member of the club, who was asked for the fare, said that the rate was for all.
